rather than confined to your own self.”*

LEARN TOGETHER IN STUDY AND SERVICE

The Bahá'í Writings teach us that the purpose of life is to know and love God. A powerful way to do this is to study the Word of God and walk a path of service that helps build a better world.

In study circles, participants from all backgrounds gather in an encouraging environment to study spiritual subjects such as the power of prayer, the nature of the soul, life after death and service to humanity. We believe that together we can learn to worship God, respect all people and create a better world for our children.

Join a study circle and discover a path of spiritual growth and service that is world embracing.
